Working with companies, or clusters of companies, offers many benefits to researchers including:

- > Exposure to the challenges and business opportunities facing industry
- > Opportunity to transfer your technology into a company and see it in action in the marketplace
- > Access to funding for you and your research team
- > Practical experience and the opportunity to work on placement in companies for your students

Here is a brief introduction to our programmes which are designed to introduce you to companies and facilitate increased collaboration. Click on the links below to access more details on each programme;
